Diploma in Mathematics

This diploma course expands your mathematical knowledge and explains how to work with and solve expressions and formulas to solve quadratic and simultaneous equations. We also show you how to work with inequalities and complex numbers. The course then moves on to synthetic (or 'pure') geometry and examines shapes before delving into coordinate geometry to explain how to work with parallel and perpendicular lines, circles and graphs. Introduction to Python

We begin with a history of this famously readable language and explain its importance in the workplace before delving into source code and the core characteristics that define Python. We go through relevant documentation and demonstrate the use of the online utility 'Repl.it' instead of installing Python on your local machine. The account creation walkthrough will enable you to save all your code to return to after the course. We
